About Hospet and Hampi

Hospet, also known as Vijayanagar, is the largest city and district headquarters of the district of Vijayanagar. It is famous for the historical ruins of the Vijayanagar empire which are distributed in the twin cities of Hampi and Hospet. The city has a rich heritage and was built on the Tungabhadra River with the majestic Tungabhadra Dam built across it. Numerous other attractions like the Virupaksha Temple (UNESCO World Heritage Site) and Chitradurga Palace of Stone are all close by Hampi is a UNESCO World Heritage site and was the capital city of the Vijayanagar Empire which in 1500 C E was the world's second largest medieval city after Beijing. It is also mentioned in the Ramayan and Puranas.

The ancient ruins of Hospet and Hampi are a must visit!!!
